Palme to return to Gulf

GENEVA, May 11 (A.P.) - Former Swedish prime minister Olof Palme will renew his peace initiative to Iran and Iraq later this month, a United Nations spokesman said here today.

The announcement followed three hours of private talks between Mr. Palme and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldbeim, who arrived in Geoeva yesterday after talks with Portuguese officials in Lisbon about independence for East Timor and Namibia.

Mr. Palme, travelling as a special U.N. envoy, has periodically visited authorities in Iran and Iraq since their border war broke out last Sept. 22. His accomplishments in seeking peace there have been considered limited at best.

The U.N. spokesman, Mr. Anthony Curnow, said no precise dates have been selected for Mr. Palme's next trip to the Gulf. He was to return to Stockholm later today. (Related story on page 5)

Mr. Waldheim, meanwhile, is to take a flight tomorrow morning to London on the final stop of his European tour that included visits to KUWAIT, May 11 (Agencies) — Kuwait today called on French President-elect Francois Mitterrand to work for promoting Arah-French relations on the hasis of mutual interests, with a view to arranging a just peace in the Middle East.

"We hope the new French administration represented by President Mitterrand will appraise the importance of French-Arab relations on the hasis of mutual interests of the two peoples," said Minister of State Abdul Aziz Hussein after a cabinct meeting.

He stressed that French-Arab relations under Mr. Mitterrand will have to be based on an understanding on the necessity of redressing the Palestinians and returning to the Arabs the land Israel seized during the 1967 Middle East war.

"Kuwait will do its best to develop relations with France," Mr. Hussein told reporters."We hope these relations will develop in the direction of establishing a just peace in the region."

Meantime, the Saudi state radio reported that King Khaled sent "congratulations and best wishes" 10 Mr. Mitterrand. The Saudi monarch wished France "prosperity" and expressed hopes Saudi-French ties will become stronger for the good of the two peoples and for "world peace." said the broadcast.

World reaction cautiou at French changeover

LONDON, May 11 (Agencies) — The world reacted cautiousl to Socialist leader François Mitterrand's election as president o France. London's Conservative Daily Express newspaper, noting the first leftist victory in France since Gen. Charles de Gaulle' Fifth Republic in 1958, ran the news under the headline, "Di Gaulle really is dead."

Both conservative and socialist leaders of NATO member nat ions sent congratulatory telegrams to the president-elect. The included West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, Italian Pre sident Sandro Pertini and Britain's Conservative Party Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

U.S. President Ronald Reagan, in the message that he directed be sent Sunday afternoon after learning about 3 p.m., (190 GMT about the election results, told Mr. Mitterrand;

"I speak for myself and for the American people in extending to you my warmest congratulations on your election as President of France. In personal terms, I am especially impressed by you. victory -- only those who have devoted the hard work and year. long dedication to winning the presidency can fully appreciated what today's reaffirmation of the democratic process in Francia,

Mr. Reagan told Mr. Mitterrand that their two nations "Fac" serious challenges to the security and well-being of our people and to the cause of peaceful progress worldwide. Mr. Reagan also said he looked forward "to working closely" with Mr. Mitterrand and to meeting with him. That first meeting i likely to take place in Ottawa in July when leaders of the majo Western democracies and Japan meet. In Tokyo, a Japanese government spokesman said: "We will watch how Mr. Mitterrand will deal with the Communists i forming his cabinet."

West Germany's Schmidt, who forged a strong political friendship with the defeated Mr. Valery Giscard d'Estaing, said in r cable to Mr. Mitterrand that Franco-German relations were cru In a telegram which lacked the particular warmth which cha-

Mr. Schmidt's fellow Social Democrat and former West Ger man Chancellor Willy Brandt, who has a strong personal fri . endship with Mr. Mitterrand, said in his congratulation telegran that Mr. Mitterrand's election was of historical importance fo-

In Lisbon, Portuguese Socialist leader Mario Soares hailed Mr Mitterrand's victory as an historical event.

Spanish Communist Party leader Santiago Carillo said in Mad rid that Mr. Mitterrand's victory would "have a positive influence on the strengthening of democracy in Europe as it will for the unity of the workers' movement and the left.'

Diplomatic sources in Brussels noted that the French Socialis leader has yet to clarify what his policy on major Common Marke issues will be, leaving some uncertainty about the future trend o French attitudes toward the European Community.

The Soviet Union, which had expressed a preference for centre-right President Vallery Giscard d'Estamg during the cam paign, reported Mr. Mitterrand's election without comment. But East German leader Erich Hoenecker sent a message of congratulations yesterday saying he was looking forward to con tinuation of the "advantageous relations between the Germa Democratic Republic and the French Republic."

Chinese Premier Zhao Ziyang sent Mr. Mitterrand a messag expressing hope for stronger cooperation and friendship wit France. Mr. Mitterrand disappointed Chinese leaders during h visit to Peking last February by refusing to denounce the Sovice

working awareness of needs of the handicapped

By Abla Majaj Special to the Jordan Times

MAN — By most accounts, Jordan's rvance of the International Year of Disd Persons has so far been quite a success ut one local hospital has been doing more

Bashir Hospital, a nent-run institution loclabal Ashrafiyah, is an ordospital. But it is set apart there by its Medical Rehon Department, a facility change on Department, a facility i only one other Jordanian tre. And at Al Bashir, the has ready access to the itation Department, as not at the Medical Centre. Zuhair Al Sabbagh, the harge of Al Bashir's Medabilitation Department, is trained for the work he is tere, having studied medicine, and then specialised in rheumatology and rebabilitation, medicine, in England. As a result of bis work in rehabilitating the handicapped in Jordan, Dr. Sabbagh had the honour of being one of the two Jordanian delegates to an international conference on human values beld in London rec-

The conference, which was designed to assert buman values in a materialistic world, also aimed at accentuating the importance of, service to others. But perhaps' most important, the meetings enabled the 650 delegates -- assembled from over 30 countries -to meet and pool their knowledge of work on behalf of the sick, disabled, and underprivileged.

There were special pre-sentations, and discussion groups, on such topics as the employment of physically handicapped people. therapeutic communities for homeless young folk and int-ernational understanding through

Caring spirit

The conference had three main aims: first, to increase the awareness of the needs of the handicapped; second, to integrate the handicapped with society, all-owing them to participate in their communities and giving them a sense of equality, and third, to discuss ways and means of preventing disability. This last point, Dr. Sabbagh said, is just as important as, if not more so, than the first two, as many disabilities can indeed be prevented through early detection and proper treatment.

"This is the first international conference which aimed at reciprocating the caring spirit," Dr. Sabbagh told the Jordan Times. 'However, there was a conflict in that there was no representation of the disabled themselves -- only of the doctors and experts who care for these people."

Dr. Zuhair Al Sabbagh

Dr. Sabbagh also remarked on the difference in outlooks between Jordan and the West.

"Here (in Jordan), we are concerned with the rehabilitation of the disabled, whereas in England and Europe the emphasis is niore on caring for the old and dying. The society here is such that there is always care for the old within the family itself, so we are able to devote more time and effort to caring for and rehabilitating those who suffer from disabilities."

A random study made recently by the Queen Alia Jordan Social Welfare Fund estimated that approximately 17,000 Jordanians are handicapped: "hut I would say at least 25,000 are disabled." Dr. Sabbagh said.

The most common type of disability in Jordan is locomotive -for example polio, back problems, fractures of the spine and rheumatism -- making up over 50 per cent of the ailments. Second to locomotive disorders in incidence come blindness, hearing pro-blems and muteness, which total approximately one third of the handicaps in Jordan. Mental illness constitutes a relatively small proportion of disabilities -- according to the Oueen Alia Fund survey, it is less than six per cent.

The handicapped are cared for in three ways in Jordan, two of which (prevention of disability and medical rehabilitation) are the responsibility of the Ministry of Health. The tbird, social rehabilitation, is the responsibility of the Ministry of Social Welfare. There are also voluntary organisations, such as Al Hussein Society for Child Welfare, which offer their services free of charge. At present, Al Bashir Hospital charges a bare minimum for its rehabilitation services, but the Jordanian National Committee, of which Dr. Sabbagh is a member, has put forward a proposal to the prime minister that all treatment be made free of charge.

Self-rehabilitation

In addition to heading the Medical Rebabilitation Department at Al Bashir, Dr. Sabbagh is also system by which a person who is totally disabled will live, as well as work, at the vocational centre at which he is being trained.

There are several major problems facing the committees and doctors who want to change the existing outlook towards the handicapped. One of the most ohvious is the matter of money. Dr. Sabbagh said that there are no def-Disabled people are looked inite plans as yet on how to raise after in other ways as well. one) and buying hearing aids.

Dr. Sabbagh's main interest lies in the integration of the disabled into society. The most obvious way to do this, and quite an easy thing to accomplish, too, is to adapt ordinary schools to accommodate wheelchairs and other aids for handicapped children. Dr. Sabbagh's plan is to categorise children according to their handicaps; and as long as the disability is only physical -- not mental -they will go the same schools as their more fortunate peers, "so they get used to each other." In the case of mentally and severely physically handicapped children, bowever, special schools must be

'We have proposed that three to five per cent of these people should be employed in government work, provided they are qualified for the job. There should be no discrimination in jobs, pensions, or degrees that these people rec-

The main idea is for others to accept disability, and also to give the disabled themselves a chance to be integrated into normal society," he continued. "The family plays a very important role here, and it must sbare in integrating the handicapped.

"Although we have the latest equipment in our physio-therapy room, and fully trained and qualified physiotherapists, we are understaffed; and it is up to the handicapped person himself and his family to help in his rehabilitation and re-entry into soc-

The politics of hate

THERE IS something perverse about the current mission in the Middle East of U.S. special envoy Philip Habib, who is trying to defuse the crisis between Israel and Syria about the Syrian missiles stationed in Lebanon. Much as we do not want to see another useless war in the area, and much aswe would like the Syrian role in Lebanon to revert to its original peace-making imperative, we are nevertheless bemused by the mental agility of those who think that the United States can assume the role of a fair and impartial, mediator in this matter. The United States is viewed by us, and by most of the Arab World, as the underpinning cause of the present turmoil that grips the Middle East. It is naive and impertinent for the United States to think that it can play the mediator's role while it is the provider of the arms, money and diplomatic support that allows Israel -- one of the parties to the dispute it is attempting to mediate -- to demand a status quo in the area based on clear Israeli' military superiority. It is doubly insulting that we are sent American mediators at a time when top officials in Washington are stating at least three times a week in Senate confirmation hearings that the basis of Mideast power relations must always remain a qualitative Israeli superiority -- near Israel-controlled frontiers and also further inland, such as in Lebanon. What are the Arabs asked to agree to? Continued and sanctioned Israeli dominance? Is it such a surprise that America is generating a hatred in the Arab World that grows more intense every week?

ARAB PRESS COMMENTARY

AL RA'I: When Mr. Francois Mitterrand enterhis new office at the Elysee Palace, he will find the Middle East file one of the higgest and most important files before him, which he should study carefully to formulate the guidelines of the French policy on the question for the next seven years.

Although his statements during the election campaign frankly indicated his intention to go hack on several positive French stands towards the Arah issue, particularly as regards the légitimate rights of the Palestinian people, experience has taught us that election statement do not always represent the real leanings of the candidate after he assumes power. Therefore, it is too carly to judge the new French policy towards the

While we congratulate Mr. Mitterrand for the confidence shown in him by the friendly French people, we would like to remind the newcomer to the Elysee Palace with two facts which reflect France's image as the Arabs see it. First. France's greatness is linked with the concepts of liberty. equality and fraternity. These are the principles which the French revolution held high, and they are the principles which have always fortified France against polarisation or extortion by this or that side. The second fact is that the phase through which Franco-Arab relations have passed since the era of General de Gaulle has provided Francc with the opportunity to build a network of economic relations and interests in various parts of the Arah World which are too important to be sacrificed for the sake of an artificial political entity established on the dead bodies of a homeland and a people.

Again, congratulations to Mr. Mitterrand and the friendly French people.

AL DUSTOUR: Since the era of Charles de Gaulle, France has realised that it can get more from the Arabs through friendship than through colonialism. Thus France has started to deal intelligently with the Arab World.

Today the French rightists go, and the leftists take over in Paris with the victory of Mr. Mitterrand in the French elections. Despite his election statements, we hope that Mr. Mitterrand's struggle for freedom will be like that of Gen. de Gaulle, and will prompt him to understand our just cause and work for the interests of France. which are compatible with rapproachement with

We also hope that Mr. Mitterrand's policy will be expressive of the morality of the French people--the first European people to advocate liberty, equality and fraternity.

Myth and reality in Lebanon

By Fouad Ajai

REAL COUNTRIES are hidden beneath layers and pretentions.

The Lebanon now claiming the headlines is far different from the one we as Lebanese had constructed in our minds, from the myths we had spun about it, from the images we peddled to ourselves and to others.

In our literature and folklore we proclaimed it one of the most beautiful countries in the world, one of the most religiously tolerant.

Over and over again, we insisted that the country stood for communal harmony, that we as heirs of Phoenician forefathers needed no state intervention in our lives, that out of our people's wild ways and tax evasions would still emerge a decent society.

We flaunted our attachment to the wares of civilisation. Fashions hit the streets of Beirut as soon as they made their appearance in Paris and London. Civilisation was elsewhere, to be bought and displayed by our affluent classes. We prided ourselves on our fluency in foreign languages. In our elegant cafes and beach-front hotels, we mimicked the ways of the West and displayed its trappings. Outsiders told us how unique we

Beneath the surface the substance of things was radically different from the image and from the smug pronouncements of the winners in the country.

Deep down we must have known that it was all a show, that the forced and excessive love for the country was motivated by our subliminal fear of the country's capacity for self-destruction.

We knew that underneath the polished exterior lay a tribal socicty made up of different clans and sects, that there was nothing in common between our clegant hotels and the impoverished. dusty villages in the south.

We knew that our democracy was a sham, that votes were bought with a curton of American eigarettes and a payoff that ranged from $6 in poorer villages to $60 in the more affluent parts of the country.

We knew that there was a world of difference between the Maronite Christian towns in the mountains and the Muslim Sunni cities on the coast; we knew that we hardly knew one another, that our sectarian schools taught different versions of history and identity; we knew that violence was always ominously close, that each community fed its young gruesome tales of past massacres and tre-

We knew that beyond the show that Beirut put up for outsiders lay a belt of misery -- slums and shantytowns that housed Muslim Shiite migrants from the south and poor Palestinians, all of whom were spectators to the drama and to the glitter of Beirut. No one who quite mattered went to these slums, and we definitely never took our foreign guests there. Then the entire edifice began to

The hitherto quiescent shaniviowns became breeding grounds for revolution. The country was suddenly claimed by its passions. The identification card that specified not only religion but also particular sects became the final arbiter as the Lehanese took to tearing the country apart.

The mission said it would return to the Iranian and Iraqi capitals as soon as possible after assessing results of the present trip.

The team was set up at a nonaligned foreign ministers' meeting in New Delhi in February, and made its first visit to the war zone in April.

Last night Iran's Supreme Defnce Council met to discuss undisclosed suggestions brought by the mission, but its decision has not yet been announced.

It was the first visit to Tehran for more than four weeks by a peace mission seeking to end the Gulf war, which began on Sept.

Iraq said today there was no hope that the non-aligned peace mission would find a solution to the Gulf war. In an article quoted by the Iraqi news agency, the government newspaper Al Jumhouriya said the mission's task was doomed to failure "hecause of the intrunsigence and arrogance of the Tehran rulers.

The paper said the conclusion which would be drawn by the mission front its meetings with Iranian leaders was that they unanimously wanted to carry on the war against

U.S. planning atom base at Diego Garcia--Gandhi

ABU DHABI, May 11 (A.P.) - Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was quoted today as claiming the United States has decided to keep a stock of nuclear weapons on the Indian Ocean islands of Diego Garcia.

The move, she said, comes at a time when the international situation was "drifting toward confrontation."

labib goes shopping in Damascus She was speaking to the official Emirates news agency WAM, shortly before commencing a state visit to the United Arab Emirates for cooperation talks with Sheikh Zaved Bin Sultan.

> Mrs. Gandhi denied that the American move had been prompied by the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

> The decision to turn this island into a nuclear base was taken before the Afghan crisis," Mrs. Gandhi told WAM.

The 15-mile-long island in the Indian Ocean was leased from Britain to the United States as a rear base and, under the terms of the agreement, such a move would have to gain British approval, sources here said.

This was confirmed by British Prime Minister Margaret Thaicher last month, said Mrs. Gan-

Mrs. Gandhi agreed it would be impossible to go to the "other extreme" of achieving total neutrality of the Indian Ocean, stressing that at least an effort should be made toward this end.

The Jerusalem Magistrates Court found him guilty of bribing voters in the 1977 general elections. He was released immediately pending appeal.

Mr. Flatto-Sharon, who could have received a maximum five-year prison term, said be would appeal to the Supreme Court.

I am innocent and have full confidence that the Supreme Court will reverse the Lower Court's decision," he told reporters. An aide of Mr. Flatto-Sharon in the 1977 election campaign, Jacques Benaudis, was fined 4,000 Israeli Shekels (about $400) on a similar bribery charge. Mr. Flatto-Sharon was sentenced to five years imprisonment in France in 1979 on charges of fraud, forgery and tax evasion involving a total of $92 million.

watch a Syrian later severely injured by a car bomb. Mr. Hani Al Hindi, one of the founders of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP), was badly hurt when a booby trap bomb went off as he opened his car door on Jan. 3. Mr. Balvi said he knew nothing about the explosion but admitted entering Cyprus on a false passport, driving with a false licence and using a radio without a licence, for which he was jailed. He said two men had shown him Mr. Hindi's house, and he was parked near it on the day before the blass when police arrested

Security measures tightened in Cairo

CAIRO. May 11 (R) — Guards have been placed on the homes of senior foreign diplomats amid tightened security after the arrest of a Palestinian student who allegedly planned bombings at May Day celebrations, the interior ministry said today.

Mr. Nahed Rajab Al Seraj was arrested at Cairo airport after flying in from Damascus with nine kilos of explosives hidden in a cassette radio, a ministry spokesman said.

Police guards have been put on foreign news agencies, cinema audiences are searched on entry and extra security measures are in force at ministries At least eight other people have been arrested since April 1 on charges of plotting sabotage against the government. The centrepiece of Egypt's May Day celebrations this year was a workers' rally addressed by President Anwar Sadat. Mr. Seraj told police interrogators he had been recruited by Syrian intelligence to plant explosives in May Day crowds and government buildings, the ministry spokesman claimed. Syria, a member of the Arab "rejection ist front," has been a strong critic of Egypt's separate peace treaty with Israel. Authorities here linked the Damascus government to a small explosion last February at Cairo's main synagogue. Egyptian police said last month they had arrested five saboteurs financed by Libya, another "rejectionist front" member, and three guerrillas belonging to a Beirut-based organisation. None have yet been put on trial but photographs of the group appeared in Cairo newspapers today. Police have also carried out several roundups of leftists suspected of belonging to the outlawed Egyptian Communist Party, arresting

In Iran and some Arab oil capitals, virtually no other organised entertainment exists. Saudi Arabia, for example, allows no cinemas, public theatres, bars or nightelubs, and its local television stations relay endless hours of foothall, nature programmes and lessons in Islam. Even when they do play top British and American series (Starsky and Hutch is one of the most popular in the Arab World t, they are heavily consored, and bereft of scenes which show any kissing, even between married

The video manufacturers have been quick to eash in on this entertainment-hungry market. Mr. Kazuo Iwama, president of Sony, who recently visited the area, revealed that of the 2 million videos manufactured by his company, some 400,000 had been sold to the Middle East market.

Not surprisingly, Sony's largest single retail outlet in the world is in Dubai, and its local agent. Jumbo Electronics, says it is selling around 100,000 video machines a year through the United Arab Emirates market alone. On top of that, some 200,000 blank video tapes are sold each month, and to keep up with regional demand, the company is obliged to maintain a stockpile of 250,000

About 60 per cent of this volume is immediately re-exported, estimates Mr. Manchar Chhabria, Jumbo's managing director. Iranians buy at least half the macbines sold each year, despite the fact that the Iranian Commerce Ministry has banned them. Merchants in Dubai Souk say Iranians pay in anything from gold to car-pets to get hold of machines and Jumbo also imports a staggering

15 million audio cassettes a year, large quantities of which are smuggled out again to neighbouring markets. In Iran, pre-recorded cassettes are also banned. That alone is an irony, for Ayatollah Khomeini himself made skilful use of the audio cassette to circulate his speeches in Iran before his retum from exile.

The video husiness, however, is virtually uncontrollable. It takes only one returning resident to smuggle in a cassette from which hundreds of copies can be made and endlessly recirculated. Customs authorities are becoming alen to this illicit traffic in Western entertainment, and now customarily rummage through visitors' suiteases looking for cassettes.

However, one prominent for-eign banker in Abu Dhabi, like many other expatriates, has leamed some tricks to overcome such barriers. He takes the plastic cover off the tape during the journey and then, once inside the country, refits it.

It is a business which local governments naturally wish to control, and now all Gulf Information Ministries have special video censor departments, with teams of fly-

Franc dips, gold soars in wake of Mitterrand's victory

Nationalisation, price controls expected in a socialist France

PARIS, May 11 (R) — France's political swing to the left heralds a complete change in economic policy away from free enterprise towards a system of state control with wide-ranging measures to boost spending and growth.

The sweeping presidential vic-tory of Socialist Francois Mitterrand by over one million votes will overturn seven years of economic liberation under Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

Mr. Mitterrand is expected to reintroduce price controls on some products, nationalise banks and [] industrial groups, increase pensions, social benefits and min-imum wages and start talks on reducing the working week to 35 from 40 hours.

French financial markets reacted sharply to the prospect of socialist economic programme. The franc plummeted on foreign exchange markets and share prices fell on the Paris Bourse.

Economic analysts said the markets were concerned that Mr. Mitterrand would be forced to form a pact with the Communist Party ahead of parliamentary elections next month in order to win the working majority he needs in parliament to push through his proposals.

During the election campaign Mr. Mitterrand appeared to favour a softer line on several economic options contained in the Socialist Party's programme, the analysts felt.

"But he may now be forced to move away from this social democrat line and take a firmer stance under pressure from the communists," one analyst said.

A Socialist Party economic expert said the franc would be def-

Supertanker's golden days are over

HAMBURG, May 11 (R) — The days of the extra-large supertanker are over, and half of the world's current tanker fleet is already outdated and uneconomic, a leading West German oil industry chief said today.

Wilhelm von Ilsemann, member of the managing board of Deutsche Shell, told a shipping symposium here that up to 45 per cent of the world's tanker fleet was already redundant and this figure would climb to 53 per cent in the next 12 months.

Annual oil shipments from the Gulf and Nigeria in the next decade would probably be about a billion tonnes, requiring between 320 and 350 vice (very large crude carrier) tankers, about half the number now in operation, he said.

Mr. Von Ilsemann said tankers capable of carrying up to half a million tonnes would no longer be built because they used too much fuel and their size meant they could only be loaded at certain

The tankers of the future would carry between 200,000 and 250,000 tonnes, small enough to pass through the Suez Canal after completion of its planned second expansion phase.

New tankers would have to transport different types of oil, using less fuel. State control of fleets could increase, as present freight rates did not always cover costs, he said.

Arab oil revenues up 52% in 1980

BAHRAIN, May 11 (R) - The oil revenues of 10 Arab states rose 52 per cent last year to total $209 billion according to the annual report of the Organisation of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries (OAPEC).

The OAPEC members include Saudi Arabia, the biggest oil exporter, which the report said accounted for balf the oil they produced and half the earnings. . It added that Western inflation and a weak dollar reduced the real value of the increased oil revenues. Oil prices nominally rose 200 per cent between 1974 and 1980.

But if inflation and the fall in the dollar were taken into account the rise was only 70 per cent.

The report added that the present world oil market, threatened by a glut, gave Arab oil states the chance to cut production to conserve their reserves.

oblivious to all sound. The six girls are deaf.

The "Jachara" is a twin-masted coastal yacht and her name means something like "good luck" or 'great joy". It could almost be a leitmotif for the ship, because the "Jachara" is an unconventional affair. Successive crews are just as unconventional as the vessel herself -- anything from "problem" juveniles to children with behavioural or development difficulties. But today, the yacht is 'manned" by six lassies who are either totally or partially without

The crews and their problems may vary, but the educational objective remains constant -- the imparting of intensive experiences in the fields of community living and achievement; overcoming problems of inter-human contact and self-confidence. A spell on board this schooner is a lesson in alternative ways of life, a chance to learn which in turn yields further opportunities.

It's also proof that there are other ways of helping young peoplc. Seen thus, it becomes clear that not only juveniles learn from being abourd the "Jachara" -- so do the adults in cherge of them.

Of course, adults must be involved -- after all the yacht remains almost one week at sea. In this case, the most important member of the grown-up escort is the deaf interpreter. The coming few days will be rather silent -- commands on board the former spongediving vessel will be seen and not heard. A language of gesticulations -- specially developed and rehearsed on land -- will help to ensure that the "Jachara" retums safely to port.

A voyage on the "Jachara" is a popular event, and is preceded by thorough preparations. There are regular visits to the vessel and occasional trips into the Baltic Sea.

A certain amount of manual work has to be carried out. One group repairs a ladder for swimmers while another works on equipment to determine the yacht's speed. The six girls were fully occupied learning the sign language needed for their voyage.

Since 1975, the "Jachara" has carried about 1,200 youngsters on more than 120 voyages. It hasn't performed any miracles, nor are any expected in the future. But no doubt the vessel will continue to give many young people -- be they physically or socially handicapped -- a powerful feeling that's both simple and important -- life can be

Next came the ace and king of spades and declarer heaved a sigh of relief when both defenders followed.

The ace and king of diamonds were now cashed. With the stage set, declarer led a trump, discarding a heart from dummy. When it turned out that West held the last trump, declarer could claim his contract.

IRA bomb attack on Queen fails

Another hunger-striker nearing death in Maze

BELFAST, May 11 (Agencies) — Two British soldiers were wounded by sniper fire in Belfast today and the family of another jailed guerrilla hungerstriker, Mr. Francis Hughes, reported he might die by the end of this week.

And fears that IRA guerrillas planned to avenge the death of Mr. Sands by assassinating prominent figures mounted today after authorities confirmed rumours of an explosion at a Scottish oil terminal while Queen Elizabeth II, her husband Prince Philip and King Olav V of Norway were there.

The blast occurred at mion Saturday at a North Sea oil terminal in the Shetland Islands north of Scotland, soon after the TRA's "Provisional" wing claimed it had planted a device there.

Police did not declose the explosion until last night, after rumours of it had circulated the Islamls for 24 hours.

Police said the explosion damaged the terminal's power station but caused no casualties. The Western Europe. IRA sources in Dublin claimed the bomb contained 3 kgs BF gelignite. British army sources believe the bomb could have been planted sometime before the well-publicised myal visit, when security was not so tight, and was probably equipped with a longdelayed timer.

Tension remained high as Mr. Hughes was reported slipping closer to death today.

His brother, Oliver, said after visiting him in the Maze hospital wing that he was blind and extremely weak. Mr. Hughes is serving a life sentence for killing an undercover British sublice in March 1978 and for 29 attempted murders. He was the most wanted IRA guerrilla in Northern Ireland until his capture after a gunfight with troops following the slaying.

The hunger strikers are demanding the British accord jailed guerrillas political prisoner status... The British refuse on the grounds that it would give political legitimacy to the IRA's homband-bullet campaign to drive them nut of the province.

Yorkshire Ripper says he heard 'voice of God' while digging graves

LONDON, May 11 (A.P.) — Peter Sutcliffe, self-confessed killer of 13 women in the Yorkshire Ripper case, testified today that in 1967 he heard "what I believed then and believe now to have been the voice of God."

Suicliffe, called to the witness stand in an unexpected move by the defence, said he heard the voice while working as a grave digger near the west Yorkshire town of Bradford. He has admitted killing the 13 women -- eight of whom were prostitutes -- hut has pleaded guilty only to manslaughter, claiming "diminished responsibility" because of mental illness.

Psychiatrists have diagnosed Sutcliffe, a 34-year-old truck driver, as a "paranoid schizophrenic," But the government claims he concocted a story about a "divine mission" to kill prostitutes in a last-flitch attempt to avoid a murder conviction.

Sutcliffe, dressed in a blue open-neck shirt and speaking in a calm, clear voice, told the jury of six women and six men; "I was digging and I paused for a minute. It was very hard

Rajiv Gandhi formally enters politics

NEW DELHI, May 11 (A.P.) — Officials of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's ruling Congress Party ended months of speculation today by announcing that her surviving son, Rajiv, will next month from the same districwhich elected his late brother, Sanjay, a year ago. Rajiv, 36, flew to Lucknow, capital of Uttar Pradesh State, this morning to officially join the party, General Secretary Vasantdada Patil told reporters here. He was scheduled to go to Sultanpur, the main city in the Amethi parliamentary district, later in the day to file his nomination papers for the June 14 special election. The Amethi District, located about 500 kilometres southeast of New Delhi, sent Sanjay Gandhi off to parliament in January 1980 by a comfortable margin. The seat has been vacant since he was killed tast June in the crash of a stunt plane. Mrs. Gandhi currently is in UAI: as part of a tour of Switzerland and the Arabian Gulf states. The soft-spoken and polite Rajiv reportedly resigned his job as a pilot with Indian Airlines, the government-owned domestic carrier, a few days ago in preparation for his formal entry into the rough-aml-tumble world of Indian politics.

Contents of 'Royal' tapes out in London

LONDON, May 11 (R) - Extracts from alleged telephone conversations between Britain's Prince Charles and his fiancee, Lady Diana Spencer, which the couple say are fakes, were published in two newspapers available in Britain today. Large extracts from conversations alleged by British journalist Simon Regan to have been tapent while the prince was in Australia recently appeared in British mainland and Northern Ireland editions of a Dublin paper, the Sumlay World. The London-based Sumlay Times also printed short extracts from the transcripts, first published by the West German magazine Die Aktuelle on Friday. The Sunday Times said they contained major flaws. The British government banned imports of Die Aktuelle containing the transcripts but a department of trade spokesman said tonight the ben did not include other foreign publications. Last week Prince Charles and Lady Diana had obtained a British high court injunction prohibiting the publication of the contents of the tapes or publishing transcripts.~

Sun's last eclipse of century; Soviets ready

MOSCOW, May 11 (A.P.) - Soviet scientists are making claborate preparations to monitor a total solar eclipse expected to occur over Soviet territory July 31 and said to be the last full eclipse of the Sun this century. The Soviet news agency TASS said today that nearly 30 telescopes and a specially equipped viewing platform in Siberia will be used to watch the phenomenon, to start at 1419 GMT above the Soviet Black Sea coast. The eclipse will travel across the Caspian Soa, Soviet Central Asia and southern Siberia, disappearing over the coastal waters of the Pacific, TASS said. The eclipse is calculated to cover the distance of 8,200 kilometres in 100 minutes. The agency quoted Mr. Vladimir Krat. a leading Soviet astronomer, as saying the celipse will be the last such phenomenon of the 20th century, and that observations should provide valuable new information about the Sun.

Absent mate makes hippo good mama

NEW DELHI, May 11 (A.P.) - Absence, it would seem, does indeed make a heart grow fonder -- even among hippopotamuses. But in this case, the absence of her mate apparently led sevenyear-old Neera to become fond of ber newly born baby. Neera, who resides in the Prince of Wales Zoological Gardens in Lucknow, capital of the north-central state of Uttar Pradesh, has had three previous calves, all of which she killed, the United News of India reported inday. A few days before her latest calf was born recently, the zoo decided to move the father, Neeraj, to a separate enclosure, 200 Deputy Director Dawar Hussain told UNI. That apparently did the trick. Mr. Hussain said that in the absence of her mate, Neera shifted her affection to the calf when it was born. She now licks and feeds the as yet unnamed baby with care and affection. All of which means Neeraj will remain segregated until the calf reaches maturity, the zoo official said.

MADRID, May 11 (R) — Spanish police have foiled a planned mass prison breakout by about 10th Basque separatists, interior ministry sources said today.

They said the plan was uncnvered during investigations into last week's ETA (Basque Homcland and Liberty) bomb attack on the car of the head of King Juan Carlos's military household in central Madrid. Three soldiers were killed in the attack.

Seven suspected members of the separatist organisation ETA were detained and two sifehouses were uncovered in connection with the Madrid prison breakout plan, the sources added.

In one of the houses police armour piercing shells, four assault rifles, two submachine guns, revolvers, explosives, false car number plates, a radio receiver and various documents.

The sources said among the documents were maps of Carabanchel Prison and plans for the mass escape of members of ETA's hardline Military and less radical Political-Military wings and of the automomous commandos, which is close to the guerrilla organisation.

The exact date of the planned breakout was not known but the separatists were to have headed for France, the sources said.

Confusion increased today regarding the deaths of three young men after a shooting incident with Civil Guards near the southern town of Almeria.

An official statement issued yesterday, hours after the incident was first reported, said the three men were burnt to death in a car after they were shot at by Civil Guards from whom they were trying to escape.

The statement said the men had been arrested on Saturday on suspicion that they took part in urban guerrilla atlacks which cost five lives in Madrid last week. But although their involvement was ruled out after questioning, the Civil Guard decided to interrogate them further as one had no identity documents and papers held by the others were possible inrgeries, it added.

The three men were being driven in their own hire car to the Civil Guard station early yesterday when they tried to ovespower the Iwo guards in the front seals. The guards jumped nut and car opened fire. The car veered off the road and hurst into flantes, the statement said.

Earlier the Spanish news agency Europa Press said the three dead were suspected of belonging to the separatist guerrilla organisation ETA (Bieque Hametand and

MiG landing in Japan in '76

TOKYO, May 11 (R) - Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was behind the defection of a Soviet pilot who landed his then topsecret MiG-25 fighter plane in Japan in 1976, the Japanese news agency Kyodo has reported.

Quoting unnamed Japanese security officials, the agency said ClA agents in Moscow, with the help of a British intelligence agent, offered Soviet Lt. Viktor Belenko political asylum in the United States in return for a fully-equipped MiG-25.

There was no immediate official comment either in Tokyn or Washington on the Kyodo report. The U.S. State Department said: "We don't comment on intelligence act-
